Big Cat Rescue Presents

What Do You See?
Willy Wizard loves to go on big adventures in far away places. He does this by reading books. You see books are magical. Books will take you to fun places like castles, rivers, lakes, jungles where you will meet a princess, a prince, a frog that turns into a prince and many more silly characters.
Pick a book. There are big books and little books. There are fat books and skinny books. There are red books, blue books, yellow books and all colors of books.

Your book will show you magical things. Open your book and what do you see?
I see a lion reading a book, reading a book while in the crook of a big old shady tree.
I saw a lion, oh where is he hiding?

Why in a pink floral sea still reading his book
no longer in the crook or that big old shady tree.
But the lion started sneezing.

The flowers caused some wheezing.
So the lion returned to the big old shady tree.
I see a monkey in a bowl of red.

Cozy in his makeshift bed,

Reading a book of green.
I see that monkey, that silly little monkey, walking by the big old shady tree. What a nice little bed instead of his bowl of red the crook of the tree would be. But lo and behold a lion did hold the place in the crook of the tree.
I see a lion and a monkey crying. “Please let me sit under the big old shady tree.”

The lion waves his hand saying as he stands, “Come and sit with me. We will have fun, you will see.”
The monkey stops his crying and joins the lion reading together under the big old shady tree.

Turn the page to find what more you can see.
Your book will show you magical things.

Open your book and what do you see?
I see a tiger on a log, over a river of blue.
In his paws is a book on frogs and how to cook them, too.
I see some frogs all agog, to see what the tiger will do.
With a swipe of his claws he could capture them all but aren’t frogs too rubbery to chew?
With a sigh, he sets the book aside. Rubbery frogs won’t do.
So he walks down the road delicious food his goal. Maybe a gazelle or two would do.
To his utter dismay he failed to obtain the smallest morsel of food.
But his luck did change when he saw something strange a picnic out of the blue. I see a monkey and a lion under a big tree reclining.
And shortly a ruckus ensues. The tiger begs, “Please, may I stay and eat some of your food?”
To his surprise, “Yes!” they cry and share their bountiful loot.

Keep reading to see some real lions and tigers.

This is Joseph and Sasha, from Big Cat Rescue. You can tell Joseph from Sasha because of his beautiful mane. Sasha does not have a mane. Only male lions have a mane.
Baby lions are called cubs that live in a family unit called a Pride.
All baby lion cubs are taken care of and protected by all of the adults in their Pride.
Sometimes people come and take the cubs away from the Pride separating them from their mommies. This would make any child sad.
You can help make baby lion cubs happy by remembering they are not toys, they are not to be held but live wild and free safe within their Pride.

Tigers like TJ, like to run and play.
Tigers have really big teeth, just turn the page and see.
Do you know that all tigers have a unique set of stripes? That’s right, no two tigers look alike. If you look closely you can tell them apart by their stripes.
China Doll, a tiger at Big Cat Rescue, uses her stripes as camouflage to get the jump on Shere Khan.
But little does China Doll know that Shere Khan is a pro at hiding in the trees.
Look what Shere Khan can do with his tongue.
Tigers also like lakes and of course, like steaks. They like to swim and sometimes, dunk their food as if it were a cookie.

Wheezing is commonly experienced by persons with a lung disease; the most common cause of recurrent wheezing is asthma attacks, though it can also be a symptom of lung cancer.
