Zookeeper Indicted In Murder-For-Hire Plot Accused Of Killing 5 Tigers "To Make Room For More"

Zookeeper Indicted In Murder-For-Hire Plot Accused Of Killing 5 Tigers "To Make Room For More". A federal grand jury has indicted a former zookeeper from Oklahoma of killing five tigers to make room for new arrivals, but the whole story is a lot more twisted. Joseph Maldonado-Passage, also known as Joe Exotic, owned and operated his own animal park Wynnewood until he was arrested and charged with two counts of hiring a person to commit murder. His alleged target was Carole Baskin, the CEO of BIG CAT RESCUE, a nonprofit organization trying to educate the public about big cats. According to a statement by the group, Maldonado-Passage had responded to their attempts by changing the name of his traveling exhibit to BIG CAT RESCUE Entertainment, apparently seeking to make his business sound reputable through fraudulent association. After BIG CAT RESCUE won a $1 million copyright infringement lawsuit against Maldonado-Passage, the disgraced zookeeper lashed out in the form of numerous threats. In one post, he shared a video of himself shooting a blow-up doll dressed to look like Baskin in the head, in front of a banner with the organizations logo. Per details shared in a statement by the US Attorney's Office of the Western District of Oklahoma, Maldonado-Passage escalated his vendetta from symbolic harm to planning literal harm in 2016.

A man is accused of targeting the CEO of BIG CAT RESCUE for murder. He has also been charged with killing five of the tigers at the facility.

An update for you this morning on an odd murder for hire plot. A man targeted the CEO of BIG RESCUE. He is now charged with killing five tigers last year and violating the endangered species act by selling cubs.

7 for allegedly attempting to hire two people in late 2017 to kill an unnamed woman. According to the Orlando Sentinel, one of those "killers" was an undercover FBI agent, and Exotic was indicted on federal murder-for-hire charges. Exotic is "many, many years" ago, said Carole Baskin of BIG CAT RESCUE in Tampa, who claims to be the "unna woman" that Exotic was hoping to off. She said Exotic has threatened her repeatedly and posted online a video of him shooting an effigy of Baskin in the head. Tangentially, Exotic was also a candidate in a three-way Libertarian primary for governor in Oklahoma this summer.

An Oklahoma Zookeeper Shot Five Tigers to Make Room for More Tigers

An Oklahoma Zookeeper Shot Five Tigers to Make Room for More Tigers The owner of a roadside zoo in Oklahoma phoned a local newsroom on Thursday and admitted to the killing of five endangered tigers. Joseph Maldonado-Passage, a 55-year-old man who goes by Joe Exotic, called KOCO 5 hours after a federal grand jury charged him with 19 wildlife crimes, including killing endangered big cats. He phoned the newsroom after the federal grand jury charged him with 19 wildlife crimes, including killing endangered big cats.

Carole Baskin better never, ever, ever see me face to face, Maldonado-Passage says to the camera before shooting an effigy of Baskin in the head. Tangentially, Exotic was also a candidate in a three-way Libertarian primary for governor in Oklahoma this summer.

By comparison, there are an estimated 239 Bengal tigers now living in the wild in Nepal, up from about 120 in 2017. Maldonado-Passage has been in federal custody since September after a federal grand jury indicted him on two counts of attempting to hire hitmen to murder the founder of a Florida animal refuge. Carole Baskin, CEO of the wildlife rehabilitation center BIG CAT RESCUE, contends she was the target of the murder-for-hire plot after a years-long legal feud with Maldonado-Passage. In a jailhouse interview after his arrest, Maldonado-Passage told The Frontier that he had been set up by an undercover FBI agent to kill her target, court documents allege.

Feds allege zookeeper Joe Exotic killed 5 tigers, illegally sold other endangered Nov 7 2018 11:31PM

Feds allege zookeeper Joe Exotic killed 5 tigers, illegally sold other endangered animals already facing federal charges for a murder-for-hire scheme, Joe Exotic now faces an additional 19 counts, including violations of the Endangered Species Act. Filed Wednesday in the Western District of Oklahoma, a second indictment alleges Exotic shot and killed five tigers in October 2017 and illegally sold other big cats and a lemur. Exotic is already in federal custody after federal prosecutors alleged he tried to hire a hitman to kill Carole Baskin, the CEO of Tampa, Florida-based BIG CAT RESCUE. The Endangered Species Act makes it illegal to "take" any endangered species within the U.S., meaning any attempt to harass, harm or capture said species. Exotic reportedly knew in October 2017 several big cats would reappear at his animal park for boarding and allegedly killed the five tigers to make room, according to the indictment.

In response to that criticism, Maldonado-Passage made threats for years against the rescue group and its leader including recording a video of himself shooting a blow up doll dressed to look like Carole, the group said. Maldonado-Passage would bring tiger cubs that the cubs were leading miserable lives, BIG CAT RESCUE said. Encouraged malls to drop the traveling tiger exhibits, according to the nonprofit. But then Maldonado-Passage renewed his exhibit BIG CAT RESCUE Entertainment in a bid to trick others into thinking BIG CAT RESCUE itself was open the petting zoo, which led to an intellectual property rights lawsuit in which BIG CAT RESCUE was awarded $1 million, the Washington Post reported earlier this year. Maldonado-Passage was livid. For Carole and all of her friends that are watching out there, if you think for one minute I was nuts before, I am the most dangerous exotic animal owner or planet right now, Maldonado-Passage said in a video, according to the Post.

their hearts beat 1,200 times a minute while in flight. Other animals, such as big cats, eat huge amounts but feed often. Big cats in the wild do not make kills every day, so there are days they will not eat, says SUSAN BASS of BIG RESCUE in Tampa, Florida. But then they will feed from a large kill for days, some guarding the meat so they can eat more later. View Images Tigers can go two weeks without eating and may gorge themselves when they make a large kill eating up to 90 pounds in a day.

new trial date set OKLAHOMA CITY A former exotic animal zoo keeper, charged with allegedly trying to hire someone to murder a Florida woman, appeared before a federal judge Wednesday on the latest charges that he illegally sold federally protected animals. Joseph Maldonado-Passage, 55, who is better known in Oklahoma as Joe Exotic, appeared in custody before Magistrate Judge Gary Purcell Wednesday afternoon. The former Oklahoma gubernatorial candidate and former owner of the Greater Wynnewood Animal Park in Garfield County, was indicted by an Oklahoma federal grand jury in September with allegedly trying to hire people to kill a Florida woman who runs a BIG CAT RESCUE program, and who had sued Maldonado-Passage in 2011 for trade infringement. Last week, a grand jury indicted Maldonado-Passage with an additional 19 counts of wildlife criminal activity.

Positively Carolina: When is the right time to put up Christmas decorations? Some are eager to put festive Christmas decorations up, while others say it is still a little too early. SUSAN BASS, store owner of Artisans Decorative Accessories & Fine Gifts, says, "Christmas is such a short season and people can spend a lot of money and time to decorate. People want to try to enjoy it as much as they can." After speaking to many there were still many different opinions. Artisans Decor Accessories & Fine Gifts will have a Santa in store for photos while shopping on November 23-24 and then every weekend in December.

6 More Tigers Saved From Circus Suffering in Guatemala

According to ADI, all the big cats who have been saved will spend the next few months there while the paperwork and permits are secured to move them to their forever homes. The organization is now working to secure a permanent home for the latest rescues, while the lions will be headed to ADI's newly built sanctuary in South Africa while the first group of tigers have been offered homes in the U.S. at BIG CAT RESCUE and Tigers for Tomorrow. This latest rescue now just leaves one circus remaining in the country, and ADI is working towards rescuing a reported 15 big cats who remain there. Credit: Animal Defenders International

Hopefully those are left will soon follow, and the efforts being undertaken here will help raise awareness about how critical bans like these are for animals being exploited because there isn't anything entertaining about watching some of the earth's most iconic and endangered, species being forced to.

Zookeeper Indicted In Murder-For-Hire Plot Accused Of Killing 5 Tigers "To Make Room For More" A federal grand jury has indicted a former zookeeper from Oklahoma of killing five tigers to make room for new arrivals, but the whole stc a lot more twisted. Joseph Maldonado-Passage, also known as Joe Exotic, owned and operated his own animal pe Wynnewood until he was arrested and charged with two counts of hiring a person to commit murder. His alleged ti was Carole Baskin, the CEO of BIG CAT RESCUE, a nonprofit organization trying to educate the public a Maldonado-Passages unethical practices. According to a statement by the group, Maldonado-Passage had respond their attempts by changing the name of his traveling exhibit to BIG CAT RESCUE Entertainment, apparently seekir make his business sound reputable through fraudulent association. After BIG CAT RESCUE won a $1 million copy infringement lawsuit against Maldonado-Passage, the disgraced zookeeper lashed out in the form of numerous o threats. In one post, he shared a video of himself shooting a blow-up doll dressed to look like Baskin in the head, in of a banner with the organizations logo. Per details shared in a statement by the US Attorneys Office of the We:
District of Oklahoma, Maldonado-Passage escalated his vendetta from symbolic harm to planning literal harm in 2016.

Just as we give domestic pets toys, scratching posts, behavioral training and walks, animals kept in human care rie than in the wild need stimulation to keep them happy. It’s a strong part of wild animal husbandry in zoos, sanctuaries and other environments worldwide. Pumpkins are part of a year-round program for big cats, according to SUSAN Bj director of public relations for the Big Cat Sanctuary in Tampa, Florida, which houses a huge variety of big cat specie from caracals and ocelots to jaguars. "Big cats in captivity are bored silly, so at BIG CAT RESCUE, we provide them enrichment items every day to help keep them mentally stimulated," Bass tells Bustle. "That includes holiday enrichment like pumpkins during October each year." BIG CAT RESCUE on YouTube "Environmental enrichment includes regular provision of dynamic environments, cognitive challenges and social opportunities," says animal cap organization Wild Welfare. "An enriched environment should promote a range of normal behaviours [ sic ] that ani find rewarding as well as allowing animals to positively respond to potential stressors." A lot of the need for enrichme captivity comes from the fact that captive animals don't experience the stresses they would in the wild. "In captivity, and water is supplied, territory is already delineated, social groupings are usually fairly stable and structured, there ar predators to avoid, and quite often mates are selected for them," notes Colchester Zoo.

Some of our cats even like to "drown" their pumpkins in their pools! It's a fun way to keep them mentally healthy," I director of public relations for the Big Cat Sanctuary in Tampa, Florida, which houses a huge variety of big cat spe from caracals and ocelots to jaguars. Big cats in captivity are bored silly, so at BIG CAT RESCUE, we provide them enrichment items every day to help keep them mentally stimulated, Bass tells Bustle. That includes holiday enric like pumpkins during October each year. Environmental enrichment includes the regular provision of dyn environments, cognitive challenges and social opportunities, says animal captivity organization Wild Welfare.
