The endorsement herein is the National Animal Care & Control Association's [NACA] continued support for proposed federal legislation, the Big Cat Public Safety Act. NACA supports this important bill because the private ownership of big cats, including lions and tigers, poses an unnecessary threat to the safety of our members, the communities they serve, and the animals themselves.

Thousands of big cats are privately owned as pets across the U.S., jeopardizing the safety of animal control personnel and the public. The ownership of such animals should be restricted by the parameters set forth in the bill.

The Big Cat Public Safety Act would improve public safety and reduce animal cruelty. The National Animal Care & Control Association [NACA] endorses the Big Cat Public Safety Act and urges legislators to pass this common-sense and urgently needed bill in the 116th session of Congress.

NACA also approves the use of our logo in online and print publications directly associated with our endorsement of the Big Cat Public Safety Act.

On behalf of NACA and the Board of Directors,

John W. Thompson
Executive Director and CEO
